

DEATH FOLLOWS OPERATION ON MRS. DECKER

Colorado Woman, One of Foremost in Nation, Succumbs in Frisco Hospital

PROMINENT IN CLUB CIRCLES

Leader in Suffrage Campaign, President and Governors Consulted Her

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—Mrs.
Sarah Platt Decker of Denver, former president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, died here at 8:20 tonight, following an operation for intestinal trouble.
Her daughter, Miss Harriet Platt of Denver, was present.
The operation was performed Friday, and Mrs. Decker rallied immediately.
Until last night her condition was considered hopeful, but after a change for the worse in the evening, she sank steadily. For many hours before her death no hope for her recovery was entertained.

Mrs. Decker came here to attend the annual convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs. In the evenings of the convention she was prominent by successful pleas for an indowment fund. Delegates who laughed and wept over her tales of tribulations in the early days of the federation, accompanied her joyously on a trip through the Santa Clara valley, hearing her strength seemed overtaxed, she was taken ill Monday, and Dr.
J. M. Decker, of Chicago, one of the federation delegates, sent her to a sanatorium, and called a consultation, from the first no effort was made to diminish the danger of the situation.

A Foremost Woman in the Nation.
DENVER, July 7.—The death of Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker, former president of the National Federation of Women's clubs, marks the passing of one of the foremost women of the nation. She was widely known as a distinguished clubwoman, philanthropist, leader of woman's suffrage and tireless worker in many public-spirited movements.

It was due much to her efforts that the Denver Women's club became one of the most useful and widely known in America, and it was because of her recognized ability that the National

DENVER RATE CASES ARE OPENED TODAY

DENVER, July 7.—Hearings on various suits begun against western railroads by the traffic bureau of the Denver chamber of commerce and involving a reduction of class and commodity rates between Chicago, Missouri river and Mississippi river points, and Denver, were scheduled to begin tomorrow morning before a special examiner of the interstate commerce commission.
More than a score of attorneys representing the various railroads involved have arrived for the hearings, which will continue throughout the week.
One of the cases set is a rehearing of the case in which the Vulcan Iron works of this city recently obtained a decision against the railroads lowering the rates on structural iron material to Denver. The hearing on class and commodity rates will also involve a reduction of rates between Denver and Salt Lake City.

OFFICIAL CALL OUT FOR NEW PARTY CONVENTION

40 States Represented, Other 8 Expected to Send Delegates; Territories Not Considered--Dixon

NEW YORK, July 7.—A call to the people of the United States who are sympathetic with the "National Progressive movement" to send delegates to a national convention to open in Chicago August 5, was given out today by United States Senator Joseph M.
Dixon of Montana. Theodore Roosevelt's campaign manager. The call was signed by members of the committee chosen at a meeting held in Chicago, and also bore signatures of Roosevelt followers in 40 states.
"The territories have no place in a national convention and will not be considered," declared Senator Dixon, in commenting upon the signatures.
"As for the missing eight states, the most of them probably will send delegates, although they have not taken part in the call. Maine, for instance, postponed any definite action because there is now a strong fight on in the primaries, with the sympathy running in favor of the Progressive movement.
Delaware, North Carolina, Arkansas and Nevada probably will take part in the convention. Mississippi and South Carolina may possibly be unrepresented."
"The call lays down no rules as to the methods of choosing delegates, since each state will be expected to select its delegates by its own method.

The representation will be cut down to just one-half of the previous conventions. This, was deemed advisable, since this convention is to be primarily a deliberative body.
"In all probability the convention will adopt the name 'National Progressive' for the new party, but I cannot say definitely what will be done.
Thus far no issues have been authoritatively stated, and, of course, the platform itself will have to be decided upon by the delegates."
"The text of the call is:
"To the people of the United States, without regard to past differences, who, through repeated betrayals, realize that today the power of the crooked political bosses and of the privileged classes behind them is so strong in the two old parties organization that no help as regards the real interests of our country can come out of either:
Time for Progressives.
"Who believe that the time has come for a national Progressive movement—

NATIONAL CONVENTION PROHIBITIONISTS OPEN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 7.—The national prohibition convention, with nearly 1,000 delegates in attendance, will open in this city tomorrow morning to nominate candidates for president and vice president and map out plans for the fall campaign.
In addition to the question of prohibiting traffic in liquor, the convention expects to wrestle with the problem of woman suffrage and some form of the initiative, referendum and recall.
The race for the presidential nominations appears to be an open one.
Eugene W. Clinton of Illinois and Arthur C. B. Egan of New York, four years ago, again is being urged for the place, and there is a decided boom on for his running mate at that time, Aaron S. Watkins of Ohio.
The convention this year will adhere to the plan which, excited so much comment four years ago of keeping the party platform within 400 words. Four years ago, the party declared for suffrage based upon intelligence, and by inference, without regard to sex.
Some of the party leaders are said to believe that woman suffrage is unprin-ciple and will fight to keep it out of the platform.

Special Trains Filled With Elks Pouring Into Portland for Meeting

PORTLAND, Ore., July 7.—More than 200 special trains, to say nothing of regular trains en route, and three sections, arrived here today, and tonight loaded with delegates to the grand lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, the first session of which will be held tomorrow.
Today was a busy day in Elksdom.
The big, uniformed reception committee made repeated trips to meet the arriving delegations each of which was conducted to the various headquarters in automobile parades headed by bands.

The grand forum, which considers all contests and disputes between lodges and members, and the credential committee held all day sessions.
The meeting of the grand forum are secret and all the information given out was that the body had about two days' work before it. The members of the credential committee said they would be ready to report shortly after the grand lodge session is called to order tomorrow morning. The ritual committee and the judiciary committee held short sessions.

Candidates for grand lodge positions were active today and several booms developed in unexpected places. The race for grand esteemed leading knight, which until a few days ago seemed to be a walkaway for Judge George Addington of Albany, N. Y., has reached the proportions of a three-cornered affair. James L. King of Topeka, Kan., and Frank King of Providence, R. I., are also seeking the position. L. E. Leverett of Keene, N.
H., grand inner guard, who is a candidate for reelection arrived last night to find that friends of Fred Lee Clark of Albuquerque, N. M., have been industriously preparing to oppose him.
A special train arrived early today bearing members of the Superior, Wis. lodge, who are booming the candidacy of Thomas B. Miles of that city, for grand exalted ruler.

MAYOR OF SAN ANTONIO FOURTEEN TERMS DIES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 7.— Bryan Callaghan, 14 times elected mayor of San Antonio, and serving in that office, died today after an illness of two weeks.

TENNIS CHAMPION DEFEATED

MOUNTAIN STATION, N. J., July 7.
—Al F. Johnson of Philadelphia, former intercollegiate tennis champion, won the middle states single championship today, defeating Champion W. M.
Hall of New York, 10-12; 1-6; 7-5; 6-1; 6-2.

IS SAID HILLES WON'T ACCEPT CHAIRMANSHIP

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The real work of organizing the Republican campaign for 1912 will be taken up tomorrow, when the subcommittee of the Republican national committee will meet and select a chairman. All the members of the subcommittee are in Washington and they will be the guests of President Taft at a luncheon at the White house, at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when the name of the chairman probably will be announced. President Taft will arrive early tomorrow from his summer home at Beverly, Mass., to meet the committee.
The subcommittee understood today that the president's secretary, Charles D. Hilles, who has been considered all along for the position, would not accept the chairmanship, and a general survey of men available was made during the day. The subcommittee will meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, and will then consider the names suggested and probably recommend someone to the president for chairman.
Names considered include Harry A.
Baugherty and Carmi Thompson of Ohio; Harry S. New and James A.
Hemenway of Indiana; Senator Nevell Sanders of Tennessee; and William Barnes, Jr., of New York.

WILLSON LIKEY TO STAY AWAY FROM WINDY CITY

When He Propriety to Attend Meeting New Democratic Committee He Thought Presence Was Required

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 7.—Governor Willson said today he probably would not go to Chicago, as he had intended, to attend the meeting of the new Democratic national committee, July 15. His promise of several days ago to attend was given, he said, under the impression that the presence of the nominee, on such occasions also was required. Since then, he said, he has found that such was not the case.
Should the governor hold to his present plan, Robert S. Houdspeth, the New Jersey committeeman, and his old-time friend, will be commissioned to voice the governor's views at Chicago and probably to convey to the committee the name of the governor's choice for chairman of the national committee.

Representative Underwood's invitation to the governor to confer with him concerning legislation pending and prospective during the remainder of the present session of congress, probably will result in a meeting between the two at an early date. The governor said tonight that he hoped to see Mr. Underwood and Speaker Clark soon, but added that he had no appointment to meet either.

STEAMER IS ADRI

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—The steamer City of Panama is drifting helpless 250 miles south of San Francisco, while the steamer Rose City is driving from San Pedro to the rescue.
The sea is calm and the ship is said to be in no danger.

INTERURBAN CARS MEET HEAD-ON; FOUR DEATHS

MARION, Ind., July 7.—Four persons were killed and more than a dozen seriously injured in a head-on collision between two interurban cars on the Marion, Bluffton & Eastern traction line here today. The collision was between a regular car and one loaded with merry-makers, bound for an amusement resort. The accident occurred on a straight track. The cause is unknown.

DRUNKEN REBELS OVERRUN JUAREZ

BECOME DISORDERLY ON REACHING CITY

Made Sullen and Morose by Defeat, Orozco Determined to Secure Revenge

JUAREZ, Mex., July 7.—Serious disorder prevailed in Juarez tonight among the 2,500 troops mobilized here.
Talk of a probable mutiny was frequently heard in the streets. Some of the soldiers who have been in the interior for months objected to being sent away at once to Casas Grandes without a respite of at least several days here.

Colonel Pascual Orozco, Sr., in command here, says they will be forced to leave tomorrow.
All gambling houses and saloons were closed at 8 o'clock as a precaution. Many of the troops intoxicated earlier, however, continued to quarrel in the streets.
Complete order was restored by 11 o'clock and rebel officers declared they had the situation well in hand and that no outbreak was probable. Trains were being made up preparatory to sending the majority of the troops southwest along the Mexican-Northwestern and away from the border.

JUAREZ, Mex., July 7.—Nearly 1,000 troops arrived today over the Mexican Central from San Antonio, Tex., believing the total rebel strength now mobilized here to be about 2,500. Colonel Pascual Orozco, Sr., father of the rebel chief, declared tonight that within 24 hours General Luis Fernandez and Francisco del Toro would take about 1,500 men away to Casas Grandes and the remainder would leave tomorrow under General Rojas. With the presence of so many troops here all saloons were ordered closed today.

Orozco Sullen and Morose.
AT GENERAL OROZCO'S HEAD-QUARTERS, SAIZ, Mex., July 7.—Still sullen and morose, but none the less determined to continue in defiance of the constituted government, Gen. Pascual Orozco today in his bed today, giving final orders of the institution of the guerrilla warfare which he proposes to wage until Madero is forced to resign. Thirty miles south the city of Chihuahua was celebrating the arrival of the federals.

Though urged to go to Juarez, 150 miles north of here, for a council of war, the defeated commander-in-chief today had made for definite announcement regarding his literary career. Those members of his staff closest to him professed to believe that he would send to Juarez the commander-in-chief private car in which he has hidden away from three battlefields, and travel with his men on horseback over the government road to Casas Grandes, 100 miles due north.
One reason for this belief was the sensitivity of the general who made no effort today to conceal his chagrin at the rebel defeat at Machuca three days ago. Contrary to the advice of his most competent officers he ordered the flight believing there was a chance of saving. Failure was expected by nine-tenths of his officers because ammunition was short and these men now sympathized with Gen. Diaz in his desire to get into the mountains without seeing any more persons, many of them not friendly to the cause, than absolutely necessary.

Finished With Organized Warfare.

Orozco admitted today that he had finished with organized warfare.
"It was useless for us to attempt to stand against Huerta's cannon," he said, "From now on we will fight, but after the manner of guerrillas. When we get a chance we will strike the federals, and then retreat. We will engage in no more pitched battles. We will leave behind us a region devastated and desolate. We will obtain fresh recruits in the country through which we ride. But foreign interests will be protected. We are not making war on Americans or American investments.
Madero and his government are the objects of our attack."

Senora will be the first state to feel the effect of the new campaign, but it is the ambition of Orozco to extend the field of operations soon to states near Mexico City. Gen. Cheche Campos was one of the officers at the conference of chiefs here today and to

Half Revolution of Wheel Cuts Off Left Foot of the Engineer

J. E. Waldron, a Colorado Midland engineer, had his left foot cut off at the Santa Fe yards early last night, in a peculiar accident. Waldron was oil-ing the engine and called to his fireman to turn over the drivers so that he could reach other parts with the oil can. The engineer's foot was on the rail and was severed when the wheels passed over it. He was taken to St.
Francis hospital, and probably will recover. Waldron is married and lives at 1841 Colorado avenue.

About two years ago, while driving his engine through a tunnel, west of Manitou, Waldron was struck on the head by a projection in the tunnel wall, when he looked out the cab window, and was found unconscious by his fireman. He was taken to a hospital, and was in a serious condition for a long time.

SEES HUSBAND DROWN; LATER IN A RUNAWAY

Harrowing Experiences of Mrs. Fayet Cameron and Little Daughter--Man Meets Death in Pond at Staley Ranch

While his wife and 10-year-old daughter stood helpless on shore a few feet from him, Fayet Cameron fell from a homemade raft he was trying to sail on a small lake at the Fred Staley ranch about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was drowned before help could reach him. Cameron was employed at the ranch, which is about four miles southeast of the city, and he and his family had lived there for the last two or three months.
On the fourth of July Cameron and others about the ranch conceived the idea of building a raft from several logs and sailing on the lake, and for a time amused themselves by sailing it along the water. Yesterday Mrs. Cameron and her daughter were about to take a sail on it, but Cameron decided to test it first. He stepped aboard and the raft floated out to the center of the lake, which is little more than a pond, being about 100 feet wide and not more than 15 feet deep at any point. Then the ties parted suddenly, and Cameron was plunged into the water.
He rose once, clutched a floating tie for an instant and then sank again.

The body was not recovered until two hours later, when Coroner Jackson and his associates located it with grappling irons. News of the accident was telephoned in from the ranch to Mrs.
Staley, who lives at 1110 East Avenue.
She notified the coroner's office and then started for the ranch in a buggy.
Another accident which did not result fatally, but which nevertheless had serious features, happened on the way back to town when Mrs. Staley was bringing Mrs. Cameron and her daughter to Colorado Springs. Near Prospect Lake the buggy wheel struck a post with such force that Mrs. Staley, Mrs. Cameron and her daughter were thrown out. Mrs. Staley sustained the most severe fall, but her injuries are not expected to prove serious. They were brought to the Staley home in an automobile.
Cameron was about 33 years old and came here originally from Missouri, where Staley knew him. It is understood that his brother is attending a ministerial college at Ash Grove, Mo., and the coroner is trying to locate him.
Coroner Jackson said the case is so clearly one of accidental death that there will be no inquest.

U. S. BATTLESHIP IS RAMMED BY STEAMER

NEWPORT, R. I., July 7.—While steaming its way through a dense fog near the Newport naval training station, today, the Fall River line steamer Commonwealth rammed the United States battleship New Hampshire.
Both ships sustained considerable damage, but no fatalities or injuries resulted.

The Commonwealth struck the New Hampshire astern, and nearly end on.
When the New Hampshire was discovered by the lookout, the Commonwealth was almost upon it. Before the ship could be turned aside, the collision occurred.
Aboard the Commonwealth, the sleeping passengers were awakened in their berths, and several were thrown from their beds.
Part of the 1,000 passengers scrambled to the decks to ascertain the cause of the trouble, but were assured by officers that there was no danger, and there was no disorder.

The Commonwealth's bow was stove in where it rammed the battleship, while the New Hampshire's stern was cut about the protective deck.
The after-compartment was crushed throughout, the gun and berth decks were smashed, and the captain's after-cabin, and the boiler room beneath were damaged.
After unloading her passengers, the Commonwealth proceeded tonight to New York, where she will go into dry dock for repairs. The battleship New Hampshire has not yet been returned where to proceed to have her damages repaired.

FOUR MEN ARE KILLED IN BATTLE BETWEEN UNION AND NONUNION TIMBERMEN

LAKE CHARLES, La., July 7.—Four men were killed and four seriously wounded today in a pitched battle between union and nonunion timber-workers, and guards employed by a lumber mill at Grabow, La., a mill town, 50 miles north of here. The dead men were:

CATES HALL,
ROY MORTON,
EDWARD BROWN,
UNIDENTIFIED ITALIAN.

Hall, Morton and Brown were union men.
A party of 200 union men from Deridder, under the leadership of A. L.
Emerson, president of the Brotherhood of Timber Workers went to Grabow, where a strike is in progress, to hold a meeting. The proprietor of the mill and his nonunion employees, it is said, met them and in a words clash that followed some one fired a revolver.
This was followed by a fusillade.
Sheriff Reid left immediately on a special train for Grabow accompanied by the coroner, and a detachment of Louisiana National guards will follow as soon as the men can be assembled.
The trouble has been brewing for some time. It is declared. The mill at Grabow employs but 60 workers.

COUGHLIN TO SHARE IN MILLION DOLLAR ESTATE

Alderman John J. Coughlin of Chicago, who is spending the summer in this city, managing the Zoo, which he owns is one of eight or 10 heirs to the estate of James and George Hamil, wealthy cattle feeders of Iowa, who were killed when a train struck the automobile in which they were riding with two of their friends, at Geneva, Ill., last week. The Hamilys, who were first cousins of Coughlin, were bachelors, and leave an estate said to be worth $1,000,000. All of the heirs are first cousins of the late Hamilys.

LITTLE GIRL VICTIM OF MURDEROUS FIEND

NEW YORK, July 7.—Julia Conners, a 12-year-old girl, was murdered in a frenzied manner today. Her body, bearing 36 wounds, evidently made by a silencer, but still retaining a breath of life, was found in a vacant lot in the Bronx. The child died without having regained enough consciousness to identify her slayer, with more than the explanation that he was "a man."
The girl was one of four children of Edward Conners, a shipping clerk, who lived nearby. On Saturday afternoon she walked to a park, but suddenly disappeared. A boy found the body early today, wrapped in a torn skirt.
The hair had been cut off. One of 26 wounds was a stab in the heart. Her throat was also pierced, and a stab in the back had pierced the lungs.
Later tonight police said they had definitely established the fact that the attack on the girl was made in a vacant apartment on the second floor of a house beside the lot in which she was found. Evidence in the bath room of the apartment leads the police to believe that the girl was murdered there. The bath room was blood stained, and on the floor were found quantities of the girl's hair.

Severe Storm Breaks Chicago's Heat Wave. Property Loss Large

CHICAGO, July 7.—Damage amounting to $300,000 was caused today by a severe electrical storm, which swept over Chicago. Twelve houses were struck by lightning and there were 42 alarms received by the fire department during the storm. Many thousand basements were flooded and fire engines were sent to pump out the water in a number of instances. In one downtown manufacturing plant the basement was flooded with six feet of water and a large stock of goods damaged.
It is estimated that five inches of rain fell in two hours. In the western suburbs, the streets were flooded with three feet of water.
The storm broke up the recent hot spell and a fall of 10 degrees in temperature was recorded. Three deaths and 25 prostrations were the day's heat tol.

Week Will Be Busy One for Congress

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Congress tomorrow will inaugurate a midsummer week of activity with final action on the Lorimer election case, pledged in the senate and probable impeachment steps in the house against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the commerce court in connection with culm bank deals in Pennsylvania.

It was declared tonight that the unanimous report of the house judiciary committee recommending Arch-bald's impeachment by the senate would be adopted by the house without protracted debate as the Pennsylvania delegation has disclosed no intention of opposing it.

The Lorimer vote will be taken Tuesday or the latter part of the week.
"I imagine there will be a majority of five or six against Senator Lorimer," said Senator Kern of Indiana, one of the leaders against Lorimer's retention of his seat. "I have taken no poll, however, and know of no one else that has done so."

PARACHUTE JUMPER DROWNS

CLEVELAND, O., July 7.—Robert Thildeau, 18 years old, was drowned today when his parachute, which was cut adrift 1,000 feet in the air, descended into Fairmount reservoir.
It was Thildeau's second ascension. The boy's inexperience probably cost him his life, as an older parachute jumper might have avoided the tragedy.

ALASKA ROCKS UNDER EARTH SHOCKS

One Man Near Fairbanks Is Killed When Rock in Mine Is Loosened and Falls

IS RECORDED IN KANSAS

Government Is Investigating Probable Permanent Alterations of Coast

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 7.—A most violent earthquake took place here at 10 o'clock tonight, the earth rocking continuously for 40 seconds.
Less violent shocks occurred throughout the night.
Louis Anderson, foreman of a mine on Dome creek, was killed as the result of the earthquake. He was suffocated by a rock slide which the quake loosened from the roof of the mine.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The greatest earthquake shocks since the San Francisco disaster of 1906 were experienced today on the seismograph at the Georgetown university observatory.
The distance was calculated at 3,000 miles and the direction uncertain.
The tremors continued from 7:07 until 8:42 in. The heaviest shock at 8:41
a. m. threw two needles completely out of scale and registered 35 millimeters on another dial.

til 8:42 in. The heaviest shock at 8:41

SEATTLE, Wash., July 7.—Violent disturbances, lasting from 12:01 to 2:08 a. m. today were recorded on the seismograph at the University of Washington. The heaviest shock was from 1:20 to 1:25, with the most intense vibrations of this shock between 12:01 and 12:15, at which time the needle ran clear off the paper.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 7.— Two heavy earthquakes were recorded by seismograph at the University of Utah, this morning. The first shock was at 1:40. The second shock was at 1:47, and lasted more than an hour.
The first shock was so violent that it threw the pendulum off the drum of the cart and was recorded.

Recorded in Kansas.
LAWRENCE, Kan., July 7.—Severe earth shocks 70 minutes in duration were recorded on the seismograph at the University of Kansas beginning at 1:15 o'clock this morning. The center of the disturbance was estimated at 3,800 miles distant.
The vibration marks on the base of the cart were 3.24 inches across the instrument. The most violent known since its installation five years ago. The waves were heavier in the east and west than in the north and south.

Professor H. F. Hild, in charge of the observatory, said there were two probable centers—one to the northwest in Alaska near the recent volcanic disturbance, and the other on the northwest coast of South America, in Columbia or Ecuador.

Probable Changes of Value.
SEATTLE, Wash., July 7.—Permanent alteration in the climate of the Alaskan coast, the opening of new fishing banks of unestimated value, and the eventual closing of Behring straits are among the scientific probabilities now being investigated as the result of the eruption of Mount Katmai, a month ago.

With the air still clouded with ash from the eruption, various geological parties, and several revenue cutters, are exploring the bottom of the sea to determine how far summertime geography has been changed. This feature of the situation is held to give great importance to the eruption which the immediate damage was slight, and from which there was no known loss of life. So far as the earth's surface is concerned, the eruption was beneficial, the volcanic ash deposited having already stimulated plant growth.

now assigned to the task of examining

PREMATURE BLAST COSTS NINE LIVES

RENO, Nev., July 7.—A special report from Reno, Nev., says a premature blast at the Nevada Consolidated Copper company, and seven Austrians and one Greek were instantly killed this afternoon when several hundred pounds of black powder and a large quantity of dynamite exploded in a drill hole.
"C. B. Phay, a drill operator, 35 feet away, was hurt by flying rocks, but not seriously."
"The cause of the premature explosion is unknown."
"The accident occurred in the second level, 120 feet deep."
"The bodies were lying in a heap, and were identified by a grand jury sitting in the city hall 6,000 feet from the site of the explosion."

PRIMITIVE BATHROOMS IN BRITISH ARABIA

From a Consular Report.

This is a primitive country. Drinking and bathing water is drawn from the sea, condensed, and delivered to residents in wagons at one-half cent a gallon.

There is no plumbing, and modern bathroom fittings are conspicuous by their absence. We use washbasins for bathing purposes, and for shower baths we use an ordinary tin bucket with a sprinkler soldered in the bottom and suspended from the ceiling. Thus a shower arrangement costs only a few cents. How soon these conditions will change for the better cannot be definitely stated. The British authorities have considered the advisability of piping water into Aden from Lahel, about 30 miles distant, but have come to no decision in the matter as yet. Should a change take place this consular report will do its utmost to insure the introduction of American plumbing and bathroom facilities.

Arrangements are being made at Lyons to celebrate next year the centenary of the birth of the inventor of the sewing machine, Bartholomew Thimmonier, who died in 1837 in abject poverty.

a nationwide movement—on non-union lines, so that the people may be served in sincerity and truth by an organization, unfettered by obligation to conflicting interests.

Who believe in the right and capacity of the people to rule themselves and effectively control all the agencies of their government, and who hold that only through social and industrial justice, thus secured, can honest property and permanent protection.

Who believe that government by the few tends to become, and has, in fact, become government by the corrupt influences that control the few.

Who believe that only through the movement proposed can we obtain in the nation and in the several states the legislation demanded by the modern industrial evolution; legislation which shall favor honest business and yet control the great agencies of modern business so as to insure their being used in the interest of the whole people; legislation which shall promote prosperity and at the same time secure the better and more equitable diffusion of prosperity; legislation which shall promote the economic well being of the honest laborer, wage worker, professional man and business man alike, but which shall at the same time strike in efficient fashion, and not pretend to strike at the roots of privilege in the world of industry no less than in the world of politics.

Who believe that only this type of wise industrial evolution will avert industrial revolution.

AMERICAN GIRL TO BE PREMIER DANSEUSE.

To beautiful Eva Swain, the 18-year-old daughter of Edgar Swain, a retired lawyer, has gone the honor of becoming the first American prima ballerina at the Metropolitan Opera house. The announcement that Director Gatti-Casazza has chosen this lithe-limbed young girl from among more than 300 applicants from all over Europe and the United States to be the premier danseuse during the opera season next year, has caused a sensation in operatic circles here and abroad. Always previously the choice had been some famous ballerina from one of the European ballets. Although she has only studied three years, Miss Swain can execute with delicate gracefulness all the movements of Baylone.

LONG JOURNEYS MADE BY BIRDS.

H. M. Loring in Outlook.

Bird migration has always been and is yet a thing of much mystery. Let the man who has never felt the thrill of this mystery take his hat and turn to a map of the Western hemisphere. Let him locate the Azores Islands north of North America, say 25 degrees N. L., and with his pencil draw from there a line down about the coast of Labrador, across to Newfoundland, and down to Nova Scotia, then across the Atlantic to the Lesser Antilles in the West Indies, from there to Brazil and across Argentina, and finally half his period in Patagonia. He will have traced then what is said to be the southward migration of the American golden plover. But let him continue the course across to the Pacific northward up the coast, then across Central America and up the Mississippi valley through central Canada and back to the northern islands. He will then have mapped what naturalists have given as the yearly itinerary of this wonderful bird—a journey of some 15,000 miles.

Healthy Mother

Women who bear children and remain healthy are those who prepare their systems in advance of baby's coming. Unless the mother aids nature in its pre-natal work the crisis finds her system unequal to the demands made upon it, and she is often left with weakened health or chronic ailments. No remedy is so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend, and no expectant mother should fail to use it. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant and elastic those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding, prevents numbness of limbs, and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. The system being thus prepared by Mother's Friend dispels the fear that the crisis may not be safely met. Mother's Friend assures a speedy and complete recovery for the mother, and she is left a healthy woman to enjoy the rearing of her child. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

him was entrusted the mission of operating in the territory south of the city of Chihuahua, now held by General Huerta. Campos is a native of the region about Torreon and is most of his men and Orozco believes he will be able to harass Huerta in the rear as would no other of his officers.

Each Column to Act Independently.

In all eight columns will be sent out. Each one will act independently to the most part, but all will report from time to time to Orozco and from him receive orders as to the district in which they are to operate. A few of his counsellors admit the probability of a large part of his army deserting, but they declare they will not be surprised and that the officers of the weak regiment, recruited in the invaded districts, Northern Mexico, for his general, are not to be trusted. They point to Huerta's tactics as an indication that the government forces are unwieldy organizations, incapable of surrounding the mobile band whose methods of operation will be to appear suddenly from those of contacts, to throw point to the mountains and shake their shoulders at the head of a force of the regular army with whom some fighting is following them.

To place a detachment of soldiers in every one of the numerous ranches, said one of his staff, would be the only way General Huerta could prevent the rebels from escaping. The area of the district over which they operate will make such tactics impossible. Have they enough Zapatas?

The officer smiled and added that Orozco and his men would have all the chances Zapata has had for evading capture and many more.

Chihuahua Welcomes Federals.

AT GENERAL HUERTA'S HEADQUARTERS, CHIHUAHUA, Mex., July 7.—Triumphantly General Victoriano Huerta, commander-in-chief of the government forces in northern Mexico, at 10 o'clock today rode into the city of Chihuahua, just three months under rebel control.

General Telles and General Ralado in command of two brigades of cavalry, had entered the city a short time before, but were immediately dispatched northwest toward Casas Grandes to head off the fleeing rebels.

To the number of foreign flags, raised many days ago by "rebel" residents who feared that a season of loot would follow the rebel retreat and evacuation were added hundreds of Mexican banners, giving the city a holiday aspect.

The entry of Huerta's army reduced the high nervous tension under which foreign residents had lived ever since rebel reverses in this region began. The reaction found expression in a general welcome which was little less than an ovation. The same people who until a week ago were loud in their protestations of friendship for General Orozco and his ragged and undisciplined army, stood in the streets, applauding the victorious general and his column of regiments with shouts of "Viva Huerta!"

City Cut Off From Border.

The coming of Huerta means the restoration of railroad communication with Torreon, though it simultaneously cuts off the city, on the border from Juarez and the American border. This city had been isolated of supplies and business had long been at a standstill. Many times will now be responded, General Huerta has been engaged just two months in rebuilding 135 miles of railway destroyed by the rebels, they retreated from Torreon, being driven steadily northward by federal artillery. The battle of Compa, Relano and Bachiagua.

Huerta's task is only partly done, however. In addition to the campaign he will continue to carry on against Orozco, whether he is in western Chihuahua, Sonora, or in regions yet undesignated, he must resume reconstruction of the railroad and reconquest of rebel territory.

Federation of Women's clubs elected her their national president, at St. Louis, in 1904.

Mrs. Docker, whose maiden name was Sarah Sophie Chase, was born at Mendon, Mass. Her mother was a descendant of the famous Adams family of Massachusetts. Her father, Edwin Chase, was a prominent temperance advocate.

To Denver in 1887.

The then Sarah Chase received a high school education and made her debut into public life at Holyoke, Mass., where she was made one of the members of a board of trustees for the distribution of funds left for the deservicing fund.

At Queens, Long Island, where she went after her first marriage, Mrs. Docker was identified with the work of the up-lift home and the child welfare movement, but on her advent in Denver in 1887 she was known only in the restricted circles of her own social set.

Long before the Denver Women's club was organized in 1894 and she elected its first president, Mrs. Docker gave her money and support to the campaign for women's suffrage. In the first election campaign of Bryan, Mrs. Docker took an active part. During the second Bryan campaign she presided at one of the largest political mass meetings ever directed in the United States by a woman.

Mrs. Docker was married in 1875 to Charles Harris, who two years later, her second husband, was killed in the battle of Gettysburg. She was married in 1881 to Judge Webb, who died in 1887.

Mrs. Docker became the first woman member of the Colorado state board of pardons, and in 1898 was appointed a member of the Colorado board of charities and corrections, which has general supervision over all penal and reform institutions in the state.

She was a member of the national and state labor committees, a member of the state civil service committee, and was called into consultation at the White house by President Roosevelt and the governors of the country in regard to the child labor question.

Consulted by Roosevelt.

Mrs. Docker became the first woman member of the Colorado state board of pardons, and in 1898 was appointed a member of the Colorado board of charities and corrections, which has general supervision over all penal and reform institutions in the state.

The Alaskan climate in the last year is ascribed to a shifting of warm ocean currents by a lifting of the sea bottom, and the present researches are partly for the purpose of learning what may be expected in that direction. It adds that a raising of the floor in Behring sea probably would mean new cod banks here and there, augmented the existing large cod fisheries. The salmon run was unimpaired, the volcanic disturbance, geologists assert, that the tens of snow-capped mountains which form the Aleutian Islands are rising steadily and, after eventually leaving off Behring sea, will continue to rise until what is now the sea will be replaced by a great sweep of land. Recent disturbances are attributed to them to pressure on the ocean floor caused by deposits of volcanic material, and sedimentary. The ocean floor is being raised and the waters about it are being pressed up.

A large number of new Alaskan settlements will sail from Seattle tomorrow for Sitka, then to other points.

A large growing population and increasing industry in the Canadian Pacific railway, according to the order for the building of a new freight line, will be the company's new line, which will connect the double track with the single track.

AN UNASSAILABLE POSITION

THE manner in which Mr. Taft's nomination was "put over" by his supporters in the primaries and at the Chicago convention makes one thing as clear as the sun at mid-day: IT IS IMPOSSIBLE FOR ANYONE WHO REALLY BELIEVES IN DEMOCRACY TO SUPPORT WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT FOR PRESIDENT.

An unassailable position is taken by Philip B. Stewart in the letter directed to Colorado electors explaining his position in regard to national politics. He recounts the manner in which the Taft delegates were secured not through a presidential preference primary but conventions which registered the edicts of a cabal of self-constituted dictators or federal office holders; he summarizes the vote in the state holding presidential preference primaries in which Republican voters repudiated President Taft by a vote of two to one; he reminds Colorado electors of the fact that a national committee elected four years ago, a committee 11 of the most active and influential of which have been repudiated in the primary voting of this year, a committee made impervious to reason and inexcusable to justice by the substitution of proxies such as A. M. Stevenson for southern members, this committee was the controlling authority of the Republican convention and used that control arbitrarily to seat Taft delegates; he cites the cases of the California and Washington delegates as illustrations of the flagrant action of the national committee; he tells how the credentials committee was used as a "rubber stamp" to record the decrees of its masters.

With all this incontrovertible evidence before him Philip B. Stewart can find but one answer to the question:

"What, under the circumstances, am I and the multitudes who possess the same belief, to do?"

"Would you desert that splendid ship—turn it over to the pirates and build a new one—plank by plank—or would you rise like men, throw the pirates overboard, regain control of your splendid vessel and put good men at the helm to guide it safely to the port of honor for which it was destined?"

The answer that Phil Stewart finds to this question proves simultaneously his sincerity of purpose and the fundamental character of his democracy:

"If some way is found by which the people can say whether they prefer Taft to Roosevelt electors I will abide by the result. If this is not done I must be considered free by some other means, to assist in offering Republicans who desire to do so, a chance to vote on Roosevelt electors."

This position is impregnable; it must be the position of any man who believes with Stewart that "Fundamentally, our campaign is for the purpose of restoring to Republicans their party and to the People their State Government."

THE CASE OF A. PIATT ANDREW

WHEN the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, A. Piatt Andrew, resigned, his letters to Secretary MacVeagh and to President Taft indicated that a deplorable state of affairs existed in the Treasury Department. He said: "For a long time the transaction of much of the Treasury's business has been at a stand-still and an outbreak of some sort, has been imminent." He stated that Secretary MacVeagh had not properly directed affairs and would not tolerate independent action by his subordinates made necessary by lack of direction.

Secretary MacVeagh has issued a statement answering Mr. Andrew. The Secretary says that the one and only reason why Mr. Andrew resigned was because his resignation was required; it was required because Mr. Andrew went to the Chicago Convention against orders. The most recent document in the case is a statement by Senator Lodge commending Andrew as an administrator, economist and legislator, and mentioning the fact that he was a successful director of the Mint.

Where benefits so much strike there must be some fire. When Glavis made his charges against Secretary Ballinger and other members of the Department of the Interior, he was immediately asked to resign and his charges met a thousand denials. Nevertheless the ensuing investigation showed that the condition of things was as Glavis had represented it to be. Even after the revelation, President Taft had the effrontery to hold up Ballinger as "one of the greatest martyrs of history." The Wiley-Wilson-McCabe affair of the Department of Agriculture is another case in which it appears certain that the official forced to leave the service is the one who should have been retained and the ones retained should have been discharged. Doctor Wiley still holds the confidence of the people.

It is entirely possible that the resignation of Assistant Secretary Andrew has revealed a situation in the Treasury Department paralleling that which prevailed in the Department of the Interior and which undoubtedly still prevails in the Department of Agriculture. The resolution, introduced by Representative Cox of Ohio, to make an investigation of Secretary MacVeagh's administration should be passed. If Assistant Secretary Andrew has misrepresented the condition of affairs such misrepresentation should be revealed. If, on the other hand, the affairs of the Department are in chaos that fact should likewise be known. Emphatic statements by the principals are not sufficient.

ITS ESSENTIAL SPIRIT.

From the Kansas City Star.
Nobody wishes to amend the Declaration of Independence. The specific grievances it recites are different from the oppressions of today. The principles it enforces are different from those now to be attained. But the spirit of the Declaration is the spirit of the progressivism of this time.

No distinctions were made then between the rights of man and the rules of law. Not a line or word of the document raises the issue of "a government of laws" as opposed to "a government of men." Nobody wishes to amend the Declaration. The Tories of this time would simply forget it. The Patriots would make it alive.

THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

From the New York Evening Post.
So well known had the Democratic platform become before it was adopted by the convention that little comment upon it is necessary. There are some things in it to condemn, such as the approval of the plan to exempt American ships from tolls at Panama—a manifest breach of the nation's faith pledged by treaty; and there is much to be passed over as merely the meaningless platitudes of party. But it contains nothing of a startlingly innovative nature. It gives no shock to the country, as did the platform of 1896. And its framers were shrewd enough and bold enough to put in the very forefront the issues which will undoubtedly be dominating in the campaign. These are the tariff, unlawful combinations in restraint of trade and the burdens of taxation and of a needlessly high cost of living piled upon the consuming masses. On all these points the platform is vigorously outspoken, and undoubtedly reflects the prevailing sentiment of the Democratic party. We believe that it will also be found to respond to the urgent and growing demand of the country.

WILSON AND TAFT.

From the Philadelphia North American.
If the North American were obliged to choose between Governor Wilson, nominated under such conditions, and President Taft, re-nominated by heretofore methods, this newspaper would be untrue to its principles and faithless to its duty to its readers if it did not give unqualified support of the nomination of Governor Wilson.

During all the years that the North American has been under its present management its fight has been for measures and not for men. Its one aim has been to better to pieces a vicious and freedom-destroying system which has well-nigh destroyed popular government in this country. The foundation stone of that system is the mischievous theory that a party consists of the political machinery employed, in regularly nominating and electing candidates, in place of the simple truth that a party is simply the people who choose it as a medium for government realization of their beliefs.

While this pernicious view is shared by both the old parties popular government cannot be restored to the people. For with the exception of occasional upheavals, or such a miracle as that at Baltimore, which sane men cannot regard as the instantaneous regeneration of an entire party, the maintenance of the vicious machinery will mean that the majority will of both parties running that machinery will be reduced to a minority and transformed into a utility of special privilege.

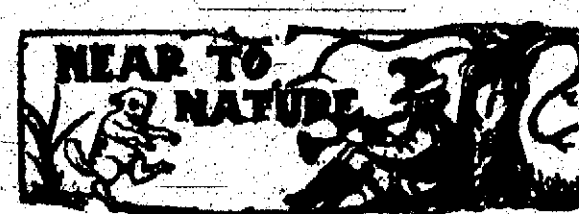

The supreme issue in this nation is the destruction of special privilege, the alliance of corrupt business and corrupt politics, the restoration of responsibility to the people. The future course of this newspaper will be directed toward these ends in the manner which, in our judgment, will bring them about most effectively and permanently.

Therefore, while we follow whole-heartedly in the great election which has Andrew Wilson, if a third party is demonstrated it seems clear to us that it provides the surer way of hastening the desired results, without permitting it to abate our admiration for Governor Wilson, the North American, as a matter of course, will cast its lot with the new organization.

BURDEN OF THE ALIEN INSAANE.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.
An investigation recently conducted by the New York State insanity commission has emphasized the fact that one of the most serious problems now confronting the immigration authorities is the large number of alien insane who apply to this country for admission. One expert, who has made a study of the subject, says that the mental examination at Ellis Island, which is the great gateway through which this incoming horde passes into the country, is "utterly inadequate."

would involve great expense, but it is a question whether it would not more than offset the cost of maintaining the alien insane who secure entrance and who soon become charges on the state.

THE COILING OF COYLA.

From the Danville Commercial News.
Miss Coyle, Spring, reader and singer of the Apollo Concert Co., has arrived in the city to rehearse for the concert on Friday night.

A NEW COCO TO ED.

From the Waukegan Sun.
Ed Hanson, who is employed at the Strang barber shop, cut his hand quite severely Sunday afternoon while opening a coconut, the nut slipping and inflicting a deep gash.

ANOTHER PROGRESSIVE.

From the Humboldt News.
J. Danner has decided that Humboldt shall have a hotel as well as more store rooms, and as a result of said decision he will convert his large broomcorn warehouse into a business block. The first floor will contain two large store rooms, while the second story will be arranged for conducting a hotel.

THE ENRAPTURED AND SCRAMBLED RE-PORTER.

From the Hopkinsville, Ky., New Era.
If ever joy and love, mirth and merriment, met and kissed each other, it was surely here. As the chimes of four stroked the hour, the soft, sweet strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march floated through the air, and slowly the bride party descended the stairs and took their places. The bride, a picture of beauty, descended the stairway unattended. At the landing she was met by the groom and together they went to the improvised altar, over which stood a beautiful marriage bell. During a part of the impressive service Miss Carr played softly MacDowell's "To a Wooded Lily."

Practically all managers of big institutions in this country have grown up from the ranks. Show me a business manager by a man appointed solely because he inherited wealth and I'll show you a business steadily losing to its rivals.

Mexico is really of great use to the United States; it is trying a lot of experiments, and we may adopt or reject them, as they succeed or fail.

When you read a continued story in which a lord marries a poor girl, and a good deal is made of an old silver tea pot in the girl's family, that's a sign of a happy ending in which the bride will turn out a countess.

The Strong Box Mind

By RUTH CAMERON.

Have you an open mind?
Or do you shut up your convictions and your opinions in a strong box of prejudice in the very center of your being where they will not be subject to any danger of change or modification?
At an interesting lecture at which two speakers discussed the opposite sides of a question of the day, one of the speakers began: "When your chairman asked me to speak to you on this matter, I said to her: 'Is it one of those gatherings where everyone comes with his mind made up on the opposite side? Or will there be some open-minded people there, who will be interested in what I say for what it's worth and not merely for the purpose of confuting it? Because, unless there are, I don't see any real sense in my coming.'"

"After the lecture one of the women in the audience stepped up to this speaker and said: 'You have convinced me. I've heard several discussions on that subject, but I had my mind all made up before I heard them, and I listened to that mood. What you said about being open-minded woke me up. I tried to be and I saw your side.'"

It seems to me that a good many people go through life with their minds made up. They will listen to arguments, but never with any intention of being convinced simply for the sake of refusing them. For some unknown reason, they seem to think it would be a disgrace to change their mind.

What a queer point of view! As a matter of fact, change of opinion is a sign of growth. Someone has wisely said, "He who has never changed his opinion is a fool." The man who is thinking, reading, studying, living and growing the most is likely to be the man who changes his opinion the most often.

QUEER VISITORS IN MAINE CAMPS

Woodmen in the "Down East" State Say Hedgehogs Clean Their Shacks

From the Philadelphia Ledger.
If the stories told by Maine woodsmen are to be believed they entertain many queer visitors in camp during the winter. Among the most familiar guests may be mentioned the chickadees and bluejays, but these are by no means the most interesting callers.

One woodman, it appears, leaving camp on Saturday afternoon, left his shack door open, as was his custom, so that the hedgehogs might come in and clean up the floor. Inasmuch as the principal items of the camp menu are baked beans, pork and other dishes rich in fat, considerable grease is spilled upon the floor in the course of a week, and the average hedgehog will at any time risk his neck for a bit of fat.

FIG GATHERING IN ITALY

From the New York Sun.

The season for gathering the figs in Italy joins hands in October with the vintage; but it really begins in August, owing to a curious system of culture.

Scarcely in August the fig gatherers squint through the twisting branches from treetop to treetop, and "off the fruit." These fig people are nomadic; they appear and disappear like the wandering harvesters of France. Late in July the masseria are rented to them, a stated sum being paid to the proprietor, a payment that gives to the fig gatherers the right to all the fruit, beginning with the figs and ending with the last clusters of grapes.

Rude huts thatched with straw are built by the proprietor in all his orchards, and in these the gypsy-like harvesters live with their families. Sometimes they supplement their narrow quarters with a ragged tent. Three sticks placed crosswise and a kettle in the crotch constitute the kitchen.

CHINESE DO NOT TAKE TO BEER

From Consular Report.

The attempt of a corporation organized in Hongkong, with foreign capital, largely from Honolulu, to establish a brewing business in the South Asiatic coast has been unsuccessful. The concern erected a modern brewery on a portion of the mainland opposite Hongkong in 1908, but lost money from the beginning. The company has gone into voluntary liquidation and is attempting to sell its plant.

The concern was organized with a capital of $500,000 gold. The plant established here was finely equipped, mostly with American machinery and appliances, including an outfit of glass-lined steel tanks, and was modern in every respect in its installation and equipment. In fact, one of the reasons for the failure of the enterprise as a business undertaking is that the capacity of the plant—100,000 barrels of beer annually—is far beyond present possible sale.

It is a fact, however, that the chief obstacle has been the lack of success attending the firm's efforts to attract the patronage of the Chinese. In some parts of the new republic there is a fair consumption of beer among the natives, but as a rule the Chinese prefer their own alcoholic beverages, or, at most, take to foreign drinks other than beer.

For a time there was some reason to expect the successful introduction of beer among the Chinese of Hongkong. Sales of the company's output increased considerably, and growing popularity gave some practical ground for anticipating a change in Chinese tastes. The concern also operated an ice factory in connection with its brewery, and income from this source lent some support to the business. The fact finally became plain, however, that for the time being the Chinese do not take to beer.

Of the 12,578,328 gallons of wine imported into England in 1911, 3,167,702 gallons came from Spain and 3,198,478 from Portugal, as compared with 2,055,888 from France and 621,123 from Germany.

Beats and dangles and some other things are also in vogue. A hot popo has also been invented, which can be directed to any object with the aid of a wireless control of its rod.

THE HASKIN LETTER

FOOD EXPERTS MEET

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The sixteenth annual convention of the Association of State and National Food and Dairy Departments is meeting in Seattle this week. The trip to the Pacific coast by the eastern contingent was made in one of the most elaborate trains ever sent across the Rockies, known as the Pure Food special. The convention will take up many food problems in general, but especially the matter of reinforcing and making more effective the national pure food and drug law.

The association has had a new section added to it since the last annual convention—the section of food chemists. There are now five sections, and each will hold independent meetings in the afternoon, the forenoon being reserved for the meetings of the full convention. The first section is known as that of food control executives. Its membership consists of all state and federal officials who have to do with the enforcement of the pure food laws. It has been said that no man ever devised a law that some one did not give him a Roland for his Oliver by devising a method for getting around it, and that has been particularly true of the pure food laws. The section of food control executives will try this year to devise methods of putting down some of these abuses which persist, the pure food laws to the contrary notwithstanding.

Another section consists of the dairy officials of the country. Their problem is to work out ways and means for promoting the quality and the purity of the milk and butter supply of the country. The growing evidence that, with the water supply of a city purified, nearly two-thirds of the contagious and infectious diseases are traceable to impure milk, is leading to a national pure milk propaganda which is strongly backed by the dairy officials section of the A. S. N. F. D.

Learning to Detect Adulterants.
The section of food control analysts has a large membership, and those who compose it are the people who stand between the consumer and the users of adulterants. Gradually the number of adulterants are being restricted, and the people at large are learning how to detect many of them.

Another section, which is the laboratory of the food analyst, the real purveyor of the American stomach, are to be found. The section of food and drug control jurisprudence is composed of the legal end of the various government food and dairy departments. One of the interesting reports forthcoming at this convention relates to the problem of cold storage. At the last annual convention it was decided that a standard set of rules for cold storage ought to be adopted, rules which would be fair at once to the cold storage warehousemen and just to the consumer. A few months ago the president of the association appointed a committee in accordance with the instruction of the convention, to consider the whole question and to make appropriate recommendations to the convention. Another committee was appointed to devise a system of bacteriological standards to govern the various departments in enforcing the pure food laws. As it has frequently happened that more than half a billion germs have been found in a half teaspoonful of tomato pulp, it might be seen that the number which might be taken in a single meal is incalculable.

Just what broods of bacilli are dangerous, and how many may be present to justify condemnation, are questions that probably will be answered for the whole United States in this report. In spite of the great awakening of the people against impure and adulterated food, and notwithstanding the fact that unremitting efforts to put down the traffic in such foods are being put forth, there are still some who do a flourishing business in the sale of adulterated food, and some who do a flourishing business in the sale of adulterated food.

For instance, there are what is known in the trade as "spot" eggs, and that is but a more gentle word for the kind that are supposed to be thrown at unpopular politicians and bad actors. They are bought by the millions, thrown into containers, treated with certain deodorizing agents, and then sold to the bakers. After they are baked into cakes and pastries the chemist sees no difference between them and good eggs. That is why some states permit the traffic to go on.

How Cheap Butchers Fool Public.

Then the cheap butcher has a trick to make putrid flesh look like the best in the market. He calls it "Jerusalem." Rub a little of it on the hand and then moisten it with water, and you have the appearance of raw, bleeding meat. The cheap butcher puts it on bad meat and in a biological sense of ancient lineage, and presto, it looks as fresh as ever came from the best meat market—and it kills all offensive odors at the same time. In some states the use of "Jerusalem" is a punishable offense; in others it is not.

Certain kinds of fish, especially shad, when they begin to look a little worse for wear in the fish market, have their eyes touched up with chemicals, their gills deftly painted, and their whole appearance made that of a fresh fish just out of the water. A section of the fish are touched up with red ink and the fishermen, after being found for trout. A way has been found to make two pounds of butch-out of one, the other pound being made up of a teaspoonful of "butter emulsion" and water. The recipe says that if they are worked together for 10 minutes there will be two pounds of butter and no water. Food Commissioner Crumrine of Kansas got some of this butter and took it to several butter experts, and they were unable to tell it from genuine butter. The owner of the formula recommends it especially to hotel proprietors as a fine way to pare down their butter bills.

In many parts of the country a new machine is being sold to farmers through which they can take a pound of ordinary butter and a pound of skim milk and have two pounds of "butter" from it. Wherever this goes into interstate commerce somebody stands a chance of being fined, but it can be used within the limits of many states without trouble.

"Pure" Cider Vinegar at Small Cost.
In Tennessee a genius has devised a method of making a gallon of vinegar—pure apple cider vinegar, at that—for 4 cents, and it cannot be told from ordinary vinegar by laboratory analysis. He also has a formula for making "genuine" old-fashioned apple butter, with one apple to the gallon of butter, and at a cost only one-fourth as great as the old cider-mill and copper-kettle method. The Tennessee state food commissioner, Dr. Lucius Brown, who has been president of the A. S. N. F. D. during the past year, has about stifled the energies of this Barnum of the cider-mill world.

Everyone has seen the familiar illustrations of the child's stockings and undershorts which have been dyed a brilliant blue with the coal-tar dye known as single gum drop or stick of candy. But that is not all that goes into the cheap candies which the children so often buy. Some of them have been shown to contain ordinary glue, such as is used for sizing walls in paper hanging, some to contain ordinary furniture varnish, and some arsenic. It is asserted that the higher priced candies are pure, and that it is only the very cheap grades that are so adulterated. Of course, the vast proportion of the children's candy is pure, but it required a long crusade to make it so.

Association a Protective Agency.
The American people owe much to the association. For 16 years it has been hammering along one line, fighting for corrective legislation that would enable the food officers to put a stop to abuses they hitherto were powerless to reach. At first, the membership was limited to a few states, and only a few states had pure food laws. One by one the states yielded to the campaign of education and enlisted in the warfare against bad food. Then the federal government fell into line, and today few countries in the world are making such a persistent effort to protect the stomachs of the people against the cupidity of unscrupulous food manufacturers and purveyors.

Louisiana has hit upon a novel method of carrying the pure food gospel to all the people. It has outfitted a health train, and the cars are carried over all the railroads of the state, stopping wherever a sufficient number of people can be got together, and showing them how foods are adulterated, how these adulterations may be detected, and how the state desires each and every citizen to cooperate with it as a sort of volunteer inspector for the detection of all impure food.

North Carolina is engaged in a campaign of educating grocersmen up to the requirements of the pure food laws, by sending them circulars announcing that there is no intention to prosecute the grocers where they ignorantly violate the laws, and requesting that the grocers assist in running down those who violate the laws by willfully handling unlawful goods.

One by one the state departments of pure food are coming to the conclusion that the best cure for impure foods is publicity for the list of those who violate the pure food laws. California has been trying out the publicity idea, and its department reports that no other step yet taken has had such a repressive effect on the sale of impure foods and medicines as this.

STRANGE NOISES IN THE DESERT

The Phenomenon Is Described as the Song of the Sands

From Answers, London.
In the North African deserts, at some times in the year, a curious phenomenon can be heard.

It is the "song of the sands." No one can say whence this song comes, but it is due to atmospheric conditions.

"WALKING IN THE SPIRIT," TEXT OF MRS. PATTERSON

For the communion Sunday service at Hillside Congregational church, yesterday, Mrs. Mianie Ward Patterson, the pastor, took her text from the first chapter of Galatians, "If we live in the spirit, let us walk in the spirit." Mrs. Patterson said, in part:

"There is one longing above all others in every Christian heart. It is to live above the earthly nature; to 'walk in the spirit,' as Paul, in our text, expresses it. This short talk is not to tell anything new about how we may accomplish that end, but rather to direct our thoughts to what we already 'know' about it, and by serious reflection to arouse ourselves to a more frequent and earnest consciousness in that direction."

"The scripture lesson teems with suggestions for our more perfect consecration to God by that walking in the spirit. We are to glorify God in our bodies as well as our spirits; and that means not only secretly meditating habitually on spiritual things, but also acting out the fruit of those meditations in certain characteristics of the external life. Naturally, if we are spiritually minded, there will be a spontaneous manifestation of that condition in words and deeds embodying the divinity of our thoughts; but the apostle here exhorts to something more than the spiritual living which spontaneously and, as it were, accidentally overflows from the divinely meditating soul."

Religion Intensely Active.

"As often said from this platform, religion at its best is intensely active. There is never an hour of our lives that the fleshly nature is not something of a weight to us, pulling in the opposite direction from the spirit, even if by nothing worse than its indolence, its inertia. To walk in the spirit, then, means a struggle against inherent opposing forces. We are obliged to 'strive' if we enter the straight gate to life, abide every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and to run with patience the race set before us. 'Struggle, strife with opposing forces,' and then the intense determination and heroic effort to win the race—these are prime essentials to a life of walking with God."

"And these only prepare us for a worthy walk with him. Let us think over those first preparatory attitudes of the soul. Willingness, determination, and earnest, consecrated effort; and let us also keep in mind the impediment of fleshly inertia, and the ever-present weight of the fleshly struggle against all along our upward path until, after many a hard-won victory over the earthly self, the momentum of the spiritual impulse has won the supremacy within us, and sweeps down by its irresistible force every obstacle in its path."

Cannot Judge Others.

"We cannot look into the hidden mysteries of another soul, and cannot know whether one exists here below which has attained to that exalted mount of Christian experience; but we know that Jesus did reach that sublime height, and that he means that 'the many brethren' of whom he was 'the first-born,' shall reach it, also. Let that be our inspiration in the hourly struggle. Where he is, there we shall some day be, also. Up on that lofty plane of his way of thinking, feeling and acting we shall meet him, but only there. To see him altogether as he really is, we must be 'like him.' Only the perfectly pure in heart can, in its fullness, realize the divine."

"Our goal will not be attained until our thoughts and emotions are of such unmingled divinity that there will not be a faintest shadow or tinge on the sea of their heavenly enlightenment. That is the result of our living and walking in the spirit."

BANNER IS UNVEILED

The handsome white and gold banner presented to the Hillside Congregational Sunday school as a prize for the greatest proportionate county attendance at the recent state Sunday school convention, was unveiled at the church yesterday with appropriate ceremonies, a feature of which were remarks by Mr. Rhodes, teacher of the young men's class. Robert Peal and Leon Bonser removed the American flag which was used as a veil for the banner until the lesson time was over. The plan now is to make it the banner of the class having the highest proportionate attendance at Sunday school each month.

PAINTER-FARMER TALKS

Alfred Montgomery, known as the painter-farmer, gave an interesting talk at the First Presbyterian church last night on Mukasey's "Christ Before Pilate," tracing the figures in the picture and telling of the religious importance of each. Tonight at the church Mr. Montgomery will speak on "Indigenous American Art." His paintings may be seen at the church throughout the day.

DEPT. ARCHAEOLOGY IN COLLEGE SUMMER SCHOOL TO OPEN THIS MORNING

The department of archaeology in the Colorado college summer school will begin its term of four weeks this morning at 9 o'clock in Palmer hall. Lectures will begin at once, the opening one being by Prof. Mitchell Carroll, general secretary of the Archaeological Institute of America, who will speak on "Life in the Homeric Age." The lecture is illustrated with stereoscopic views.

At 10 o'clock, Prof. H. L. Wilson, who occupies the chair of Roman archaeology and epigraphy in Johns Hopkins University, will lecture on "The Roman Campaigns and Its Monuments." This lecture also being illustrated by stereoscopes. At 11 o'clock comes the first lecture on "The Indians of the Southwest United States: The Environment." The Problem of the Origin of These Indians. The Tribes of the Southwest. The Problem of Classification." This work is under the direction of J. P. Harrington, of the school of American archaeology in Santa Fe.

All these lectures are authorities on their subjects, and all come to Colorado Springs for the month of July to give their time to the work of the summer school. The lecture room in Palmer hall is especially equipped for stereoscopic work in the day time, and a special wire has been run into the building from the city plant for the use of the lantern, since the college plant is not in operation during the summer. The Coburn library has done its share to make the courses a success by putting on its shelves a number of the latest standard texts on archaeology. In fact, everything has been done by the college and those in charge of the summer work to make the courses instructive and interesting in the highest degree.

All lectures will be open to the public today, and all interested are invited to be present.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS AGAINST REPEAL SABBATH ORDINANCE

The following self-explanatory petition to the city council was endorsed generally by the Sunday schools of the city, yesterday:

The Sunday schools desirous of maintaining the moral and religious life of this city, respectfully urge upon you to take measures for the better protection of Sunday and Sunday rest, and being impressed that the repeal of the present excellent ordinance preventing picture shows and theatrical performances on Sunday would be detrimental to this high aim, especially for maintaining the best advantages for the moral character of the youth, urge you not to repeal said ordinance or any portion of it, especially not to allow vaudeville or moving picture shows on Sunday.

CURED BY A NATIVE HERB

On board a vessel bound for India recently a man was bitten by a poisonous reptile; both the ship doctor and a famous surgeon failed to control the poison, fast spreading through his system.

In a day the vessel reached port. An Indian medicine man was sent for, who produced a native herb which quickly allayed the poison and the man's life was saved.

Roots and herbs are nature's cure for disease. That great remedy for female ills, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had its origin in the roots and herbs of the field, tons of which are now consumed yearly in

RAILROADS ADVERTISING STATE; TOURISTS COMING

Everybody who can beg, borrow or steal time for a vacation is going to Colorado this year. Old El Paso Peak is flashing his wireless to every city and home. Easter park is calling to every hunter and fisherman. People are dreaming of camping tents in deep ravines, and quaint summer homes on the mountainside. Men and women, young and old, are going by the thousands this year.

This is the text of a part of an advertisement being run by the Union Pacific railroad in all Chicago papers. It shows the efforts being made by the railroads to impress upon the people of every section of the country the superior advantages of Colorado as a place to spend summer vacations. Every railroad entering the state is spending thousands of dollars this year in their "Colorado" advertising campaigns, and the result is that thousands of tourists are beginning to arrive in the state every day, with Colorado Springs getting a large share of the patronage.

REMARKABLE WORK OF SALVATION ARMY AND Y. M. C. A. IN AUSTRALIA

The men's mass meeting at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon was turned over to the Salvation Army, and that organization produced an excellent feature in the talk by Brigadier John McMillan of Australia. He has been stopping in Denver on his way back to Australia after a trip of investigation around the world. He talked of the work of the Salvation Army in Australia and of its connection with the Australian Y. M. C. A. These two organizations and the government go hand in hand there to better religious and social conditions. He said that Australia is making rapid progress. The country is young and owes much to the example of the United States, yet it has made some improvements upon its teacher along certain lines. There the dependent and delinquent children are turned over to the Salvation Army, and as a result of its handling, 73 per cent of those turned over have become good members of society. Return schools are unknown in the southern country. Instead, the Salvation Army has built homes, in no sense detention homes, for care for the children, who are taught trades or made into farmers and orchardists. Government aid is given to this work. The Australian Salvation Army also has built many homes for the old and the government pays old-age pensions sufficient to care for the inmates. The Y. M. C. A. often cooperates in this work.

Island for Inebriates

The Salvation Army seems also to have hit upon a happy solution of the liquor problem. It secured a small island, two miles out, and placed its patients there wholly out of reach of whisky. The government turned a number of cases over to it for a 12-month trial, and many of them were pronounced cured within six months. This work has been carried on for five years, with the result that 80 per cent of those discharged as cured have been successfully cured. Many of these cures have been performed upon men before pronounced insane and habitual drunkards. The organization makes a practice of securing employment for those whom it discharges as cured from this island.

Smoking and drinking thrive in Australia. To fight them the Y. M. C. A. is working on the rising generation with good results. The population of Australia is 4,000,000, and in one year's work, 55,000 boys have pledged themselves not to gamble or smoke. They are living up to their pledges. Salvation Army work is continuous in Melbourne, where 30 or 40 open air meetings are carried on every night.

Colonel Henry C. Lee of Denver also spoke yesterday, in an appeal for a cleaner and better community life. Ensign Reno had charge of the music. In addition to other numbers, Miss Carlson of Los Angeles gave a solo with guitar accompaniment. The lobby of the Y. M. C. A. was packed, and a special offering was taken to aid in the local Salvation Army work.

Is the Day We Advertise for a Rush Sale to Reach the Goal in Closing Out Business!!

Early in the year when we announced that we should retire from business as soon as our great stock could be closed out, those who did not know our conservative methods and reliability, doubtless thought it only a modern way to attract trade, some even expressed unbelief that we would really close out so important and successful a business, that represented so many years of effort and zeal in building up. But the facts stand, and we are working as hard now to get out of business as we worked to build up, hoping meantime to find a successor who will take over the business and continue. In this effort we have quietly progressed so far in reducing our enormous stock, that we see it possible to make a rush for the goal. We are persuaded that it will be more economical in the end to sacrifice deeply than to continue expense of doing business without profit and decide to try

We have mentioned money wealth as our Lord did, but the principle is much broader. God's people who have given him their hearts have given their all—not merely money, but their influence, name, time, strength, and hold these as well as their stewards. Shortly he will call for an accounting and will judge of our love and loyalty to himself and his cause by our faithfulness, our self-sacrifice, in the use of all these talents. His reward to his servants, he tells us, will be along this line.

Those who bury their talents in the earth in earthly things—pleasure, etc., will still be recognized as servants, but they will be styled "wicked and slothful servants." Unfaithful in the

IT'S ALL EDUCATION

A Japanese doctor never thinks of asking a poor patient for a fee. Whenever a rich man calls in a doctor, he does not expect that he will receive a bill for medical services; in fact such things as a doctor's bill is known in Japan. The stricter honesty of the people does not make it necessary for the doctor to ask a fee. When he finishes his visits to the patient, a present is made to him; just as much as the patient can afford. The doctor then smiles, bows, thanks his patient and the transaction is settled.

Metchnikoff's New Recruit in His Work to Exterminate Old Age.
Glycobacteria Allies of Sour Milk

From the New York Evening Post.
Professor Metchnikoff's further elaboration of his anti-old-age treatment is of interest of scientific interest, certainly, and perhaps of practical interest as well. It may be worth noting, incidentally, that the professor has never considered his sour-milk treatment a certain elixir. The wonderful claims put forward for it are in great part of purely literary origin. In his book on "The Prolongation of Life," Metchnikoff closes his chapter on this aspect of the subject as follows:

"If it be true that our precocious and unhappy old age is due to poisoning of the tissues (the greater part of the poison coming from the large intestine, inhibited by numerous microbes), it is clear that agents which arrest intestinal putrefaction must at the same time postpone and ameliorate old age. . . . It can only be in the future, near or remote, that we shall obtain exact information upon what is one of the chief problems of humanity. In the meantime, those who wish to preserve their intelligence as long as possible and to make their cycle of life as complete and as normal as possible under present conditions, must depend on general sobriety and on habits conforming to the rules of rational hygiene."

This volume was published in 1907 and the intervening five years have seen little change in the scientific status of the lactic acid treatment. Sour milk of various sorts is widely consumed, far more widely than was the case before Metchnikoff's announcements. It is certainly a useful and wholesome food, and has some effect in maintaining a wholesome condition in the large intestine—just how much of an effect is still a matter of dispute among the experts.

The Glycobacterium.
The exact character of Metchnikoff's "new discovery" is not made entirely clear by the press dispatches. He is said to have discovered a sugar-producing microbe in the dog, which has been named the glycobacterium. This produces sugar in the dog's intestine and sugar destroys the phenol and indol and skatol, which, according to the Metchnikoff theory, are chiefly responsible for the wearing out of the human machine in old age. As the purpose of the sour milk treatment is to diminish the production of these same poisons in the intestine (they are the result of putrefaction there) the new germ would seem to be a sort of reinforcement of the lactic acid tribe. The professor's plan may be to have them act as a sort of commissariat department.

The sour milk germs will not settle permanently in a place where there is no sugar material. It has always been Metchnikoff's ambition to acquire them permanently in the colon, where they could live and regularly produce the "disinfecting bodies" upon which their virtue depends. If the new glycobacterium can be introduced into and will furnish a constant supply of sugar on the spot, there appears no reason why colonies of lactic acidifiers cannot be associated with them. The difficulty heretofore has been that, any starch passing the stomach unchanged is promptly converted into sugar and absorbed before it reaches the colon, with the result that lactic acid germs in the colon, unless constantly renewed disappear as the result of starvation. It is also possible that the sugar produced by the new glycobacterium can do the necessary disinfecting work without the aid of any other germs, in which case the lactic tribe might be superseded. As, however, Professor Metchnikoff is quoted to the effect that "those who take up the new treatment should supplement it with daily doses of lactic acid preparations," the latter supposition seems unlikely.

Bacteria and Old Age

After all these bacteriological details are settled to the mutual satisfaction of the bacteriologists, there still remains the question, how much have the indol, phenols, etc., to do with the onset of old age? Many pathologists believe that Metchnikoff much overestimates their powers. Dr. Armand Gautier, for example, declares that he has dosed individuals with intestinal indol and phenol without in any way injuring their health. There is, on the other hand, considerable unprejudiced medical opinion and much clinical data indicating that the antioxygenizing results from absorption of these intestinal poisons play an important part in the production of degenerative changes as well as physical, and at least helps along the degenerative changes in arteries and nerves and muscles which ordinarily accompany the process of growing old. On the whole, therefore, the layman seems justified in concluding that there is enough probability in Metchnikoff's theory to justify the regular consumption of sour milk in reasonable amounts (unless it is particularly disagreeable) on the ground that it may add something to the length of one's life, and off carefully prepared from clean material) can't be any harm. This receptive state of mind would seem to apply also to the new glycobacterium, if the professor can justify his claims for it.

Surgery and Cancer

The outcome of the recent cancer libel suit in London is likely to have a somewhat unfortunate effect—unfortunate in the eyes of the doctors at least—for it will encourage cancer sufferers to put off going to the surgeon. The jury gave a Dr. H. Bell, who does not believe in surgery for cancer, $10,000 damages because another doctor called him a cancer quack. At the present time the weight of expert opinion is in the surgeon's side. The statement is made in most textbooks that the knife, if applied to cancerous growths early and freely, offers by far the best hope of cure, and special emphasis is laid on the need of early operation. Therefore, because of the recent London verdict, Sir Felix Lemon, a leading British doctor, has written to the London Times, calling public attention to the fact that the verdict has no therapeutic meaning whatever, that no specific has been discovered for cancer, and until such discovery is made surgery is by all odds the best treatment we have. As a matter of fact, all this jury's verdict means is that Dr. Bell's critics allowed their disagreement with him as to the treatment of cancer to carry them beyond the bounds of legitimate criticism. Dr. Bell is in a small minority among the doctors regarding this particular question, but this fact, in the opinion of the jury, did not justify the application to him of the opprobrious term "quack."

Artificial Rubies

A recent London lawsuit in which the relation between natural and artificial rubies was incidentally raised brought to light a number of interesting facts regarding these stones. The so-called "reconstructed" rubies appeared on the Paris market a number of years ago. They were made by melting together fragments of natural rubies, known to "experts" as "synthetic" stones appeared, made in the same way, except that the fragments were powdered, or instead of actual powder (of which substance the natural ruby is composed) was fused and crystallized. These stones can be made up to 10 carats in size, and are equal in appearance to the natural ones, although costing very much less. They are, in fact, just as much rubies as the natural stones, being identical with the latter in hardness, and chemical composition. They can be detected by experts, however, by means of the tiny bubbles and faint curved markings in the interior. Pure oxide of aluminum is colorless. The color of the ruby is due to the presence of a small amount of chromic oxide. Apparently, therefore, the artificial stones can be colored to suit the taste of the purchaser. According to M. G. F. Herbert Smith, manufacturing jeweler, has tried for several years to make artificial emeralds, but has not succeeded. Artificial diamonds have been crystallized out of carbon masses of various sorts, but in such small sizes as to be of no commercial value. It is not at all unlikely, however, that even the latter will eventually be made in the laboratory in sizes suitable for gems. The chemistry of the artificial precious stones is simple enough; the difficulty seems to lie in creating the physical conditions necessary for the proper crystallization of the mixture.

"Stigmatypic"

A new photo-mechanical process has recently been devised by Dr. Hans Strecker, which he calls "stigmatypic." It depends upon the fact that concentrated solutions of gelatin and gum arabic, when shaken together, do not mix. Upon standing the drops of the one present in the least amount coalesce into larger drops, the ultimate size of which depends upon a number of conditions. After the emulsion is dried, it can be used instead of the lined screen in making half-tones, the process for which is thus much simplified. The continuous lines of the original are broken up into small dots, which are then in the ordinary half-tone process. The Bausch & Lomb Scientific Department, which Dr. Strecker describes his invention, contains two stigmatypic reproductions. They seem to justify his claims for it as superior in the half-tone process. His emulsion can also be used to replace the asphalt grain in photogravure.

What the Press Agents Say

NOTES FROM THE BURNS

Up to the minute.
"The Lion and the Mouse."
An amusing effective satire.
Every member has a star part to play.

Scenes from "Little Boy Blue" by the orchestra tonight.
Tomorrow's matinee is going to be another July Fourth attendance.
Some things bear repeating; we advise you to get central to give you Main 200.

Filled with the most laugh-provoking episodes, queer situations and bright lines—that's "The Lion and the Mouse."

A word from Malcolm Duncan: "The Burns company will give as good a performance of 'The Lion and the Mouse' as the road company I was with for two solid years."
Listen to Miss Justina Wayne: "I simply adore my part of the mouse—'Shirley' Rossmore, and we are going to do wonderfully well with this greatest of all great modern plays."

Here's a message from Director Kendall: "We have the cast for 'The Lion,' and it will please to even greater extent than 'The Fortune Hunter.'" Alfred Cross, whose conception of the Compté de Malice in "The Lion" was highly commended by local play patrons the past week, says: "I can't really recall how many times I have done 'Old Money-bags' Rhyder, but he's too my thing even if he is not my style of man in real life."

So far in advance are the members of The Burns up in their work that rehearsals are already under way for the week commencing Monday, July 15, when "The Lottery Man," another New York success goes on the boards.

The prices at this theater are less than they would be in any other city in the land under the same conditions. With a matchless playhouse, a superior cast and excellent plays, properly staged, the night prices ranging from 25 to 75 cents, and the matinees at 25 to 50 cents, are as small as possible.

The telephone is a great convenience, and to make sure and have the desired seats reserved in advance is the most satisfactory way when the window sale is large, as has been the case at The Burns since its opening. Call Main 200.

competition is so fierce that those who succeed do so only at the expense of a tremendous output of energy, the majority of the people who attend the theater do so to be taken out of themselves. They seek in the playhouse recreation and relaxation for their nervous organization.

To this much of the success of "The Heir to the Hoohah" is doubtless due for a celebrated dramatic critic of New York city has expressed it, the play comes, "like a crisp and refreshing breeze" straight from the hills of Colorado.

To this much of the success of "Quincy Adams Sawyer" is doubtless due, for, as a celebrated dramatic critic of the middle states has expressed it, the play comes "like a crisp and refreshing autumn breeze, straight from the hills of New England, bringing with it the sweet aroma of the woods and the homely music of the farmyard."

No one who sees it can rise from his seat at the close of the performance without feeling refreshed. The play is a tonic in its brightness and its total freedom from the hackneyed and the conventional. As a western drama, it is quite unlike all other plays of its class. Its sentiment possesses a quaint and delicate unobtrusiveness that is quite its own.

"One great charm is its exceeding fidelity to nature. This appears even to its comedy, for the fun which it animates almost every moment of the play's action, although irresistibly funny, is never strained to the point of burlesque. The laughter that it invariably creates is of a kind that no one can regret."

James Hawley and Garrick Players are well cast for the many characters which will go to make this week a rattling success.

MANY SUICIDES IN JAPAN

Ten Thousand a Year Is Rate in Flowery Land

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

The Japanese are now busily debating the ethics of suicide. The case out of which the controversy has arisen is that of the station master at Moji, who, because of a mishap to the Imperial train, which made it necessary for the emperor to adjourn for half an hour to a waiting room, showed his repentance by throwing himself under the wheels of the express.

The station master's devotion having evoked a wave of popular admiration, which took shape in a proposal to erect a monument to his memory, the nation has been rebuked by the president of the Kyushu university for thus glorifying an act of self-destruction; and the latter, finding himself out of tune with public opinion, has resigned his position.

It is a singular thing that among a people so cheerful as the Japanese suicide should be so common. Ten thousand destroy themselves every year in Japan, and the figures cannot be said to be diminishing. But hark! as such, is out of date.

The modern victims of the suicidal mania, when they do not throw themselves in front of a train, jump into the crater of an active volcano. Asama, in central Japan, and Aso-san, in Kyushu, have both acquired a sinister reputation in this respect.

It is, however, a disquieting sign of the times to find the student class resorting so largely to suicide—pecially of the spectacular sort, and this, no doubt, is Dr. Yamaoka's motive in protesting against the exaltation of an act which the Christian world regards as a grievous sin.

MAY RECLAIM THE GARDEN OF EDEN

From the New York Sun.
LONDON.—At a meeting of the Royal Geographical society recently Sir William Willcocks again brought forward his $30,000,000 scheme for the reclamation of the site of the biblical Garden of Eden. This lies, according to Sir William, in the vast tract of land forming the delta of the Euphrates and the Tigris.

The theory is that the site of the garden was devastated by "the dragon of the Euphrates." If therefore those two rivers can be mastered by dike and barrage it is held that the garden can be restored into a region of fruit and flowers and rich crops.

Every part of the Euphrates delta, from Hitt to the Persian gulf, has been called Eden. Sir William Willcocks believes that the Eden of biblical tradition lay on the upper Euphrates, between Anah and Hitt. But apart from the question as to where the ancient Eden was situated, Sir William maintains that the Euphrates-Tigris delta can be reclaimed and that it would be a profitable scheme.

UNCLE SAM'S ARMY OF EMPLOYES

From the Portland Journal.
The cost of the United States government has increased more than 100 per cent since 1878.

The growth of population since 1878 has been only 84 per cent. The cost per capita has increased nearly fivefold in the period.

The per capita cost increased from $1.24 to $5.41 from 1796 to 1907. The principal increase has been since 1898, when we set up pretensions of being a world power.

These statements were made on the floor of the United States senate the other day by Senator Williams of Mississippi. He added that ours is the "most extravagant government maintained and dominated by the white race on the face of the earth."

In 1816 there were 6,327 names on the federal pay rolls, or about one to every 1,300 of population. In 1912 there are 334,088, or one salary drawer to every 242 of population. In 1912, adding those on the pay rolls in the army and navy, the consular service, the judiciary and the 7,000 employees of congress, the number of employees required in governing us amounts to the tremendous total of 512,894, or one for every 180 of population.

Senator Aldrich declared that he could run the United States government for $300,000,000 a year less than it now costs. When was there ever more need for the old Jeffersonian plan of "a simple government, economically administered?"

LETTERS STAMPED WITH INK

From Popular Mechanics.

The latest type of slot machine for stamping letters to be tried in London does not stick the ordinary postage stamp on the letter but stamps the letter in the same manner as the stamping machines used in a postoffice to cancel stamps. That is, when the sender inserts his letter in the machine, and places a penny in the slot, the envelope is impressed with a circle of red bearing the words, "London, 1d. (one penny) postage paid," and also with the numerals designating the section of London in which the letter was stamped.
